Survey Methodology

TargetSmart designed and implemented this multi-mode public opinion research study that was in the field from August 22-29, 2022. The poll reached 2,327 registered Georgia voters who indicated their chances of voting in the November midterm are almost certain, probably, or 50-50. The poll was conducted with live telephone agents (n=1,158), on a voter-file matched online panel (n=408), and online through SMS-to-web solicitations (n=761), also matched back to the voter file.

A statewide representative base sample was augmented by substantial oversamples of various groups of Georgia voters. The margin of error on the statewide estimates (n=1,000) in this poll is +/- 3.1%. The margin of error on the Black voter estimates (n=702) is +/- 3.7%. The margin of error on the White voter estimates (n=1,217) is +/- 2.8%. The margin of error on the other race voter estimates (n=336) is +/- 5.3%.
